Detailed Action

Status of Claims:

Claims 1, 4-5, 30-34 are pending in this Office Action.

Claims 1, 4 and 5 are amended.

Claims 2-3, 6-29 are cancelled.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed in the amendment filed 11/9/06, have been fully considered by are moot in view of new grounds of rejection. The reasons are set forth below.

Applicant's invention as claimed:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable by U.S. Patent No. 6,317,784 by Mackintosh et al in view of U.S. Patent No 5,857,149 by Suzuki.

Regarding claim 1,

the Mackintosh reference teaches an information processing apparatus (Macintosh: Fig. 1) comprising:

Art Unit: 2155

an acquisition means for acquiring information on a radio broadcast station (Macintosh: col. 8, lines 41-45; col. 9, lines 34-42) and information on data presented by said radio broadcast station (Macintosh: col. 8, lines 45-48; col. 5, lines 61-66);

a generation means for generating radio broadcast station identification information and generating content identification information for identifying data on the basis of said information acquired by said acquisition means (Macintosh: col. 8, lines 51-57; col. 9, lines 34-60);

a storage means for storing said radio broadcast station identification information and said content identification information by associating said radio broadcast station identification information with said content identification information (Macintosh: col. 5, lines 37-50; col. 9, lines 57-60); and

a transmission means for transmitting information stored in said storage means to a second information processing apparatus in response to a request made by said second information processing apparatus through a network (Macintosh: col. 9, lines 57-60; user terminal).

The Macintosh reference fails to teach an audio quiz question.

However, the Suzuki reference teaches a broadcasting station providing quizzes for radio (Suzuki: col. 4, lines 66 – col. 5, line 5) in order to arouse the interest of the audience and provide real time answers (Suzuki: col. 5, lines 6-12).

It would have been obvious at the time of the invention to one of ordinary skill in the art to create the apparatus as taught by Macintosh to include audio quiz questions as taught by Suzuki in order to arouse the interest of the audience and provide real time answers (Suzuki: col. 5, lines 6-12).

Regarding claim 4,

The Macintosh reference teaches an information processing apparatus (Macintosh: Fig. 1) comprising:

an acquisition means for acquiring information on a radio broadcast station (Macintosh: col. 8, lines 41-45; col. 9, lines 34-42) and information on data presented by said radio broadcast station (Macintosh: col. 8, lines 45-48; col. 5, lines 61-66);

Art Unit: 2155

a generation means for generating radio broadcast station identification information and generating content identification information for identifying the data on the basis of said information acquired by said acquisition means (Macintosh: col. 8, lines 51-57; col. 9, lines 34-60);

a storage means for storing said radio broadcast station identification information and said content identification information by associating said radio broadcast station identification information with said content identification information (Macintosh: col. 5, lines 37-50; col. 9, lines 57-60); and

a transmission means for transmitting information stored in said storage means to a second information processing apparatus in response to a request made by said second information processing apparatus through a network (Macintosh: col. 9, lines 57-60; user terminal).

The Macintosh reference fails to teach an audio quiz question.

However, the Suzuki reference teaches a broadcasting station providing quizzes for radio (Suzuki: col. 4, lines 66 – col. 5, line 5);

wherein said acquisition means further acquires a validity-condition concerning validity of presentation of data from said radio broadcast station (Suzuki: col. 3, lines 20- col. 4, line 58); and said storage means further stores said validation-condition by associating said validity-condition with said radio broadcast station identification information and said content identification information (Suzuki: col. 7, lines 22-46) in order to arouse the interest of the audience and provide real time answers (Suzuki: col. 5, lines 6-12)

It would have been obvious at the time of the invention to one of ordinary skill in the art to create the apparatus as taught by Macintosh to include audio quiz questions as taught by Suzuki in order to arouse the interest of the audience and provide real time answers (Suzuki: col. 5, lines 6-12).

Regarding claim 5, an information processing apparatus according to claim 4, wherein said validity-condition includes information on additional information added by a user receiving data including radio broadcast station identification information and said audio quiz question identification information (Macintosh: col. 18, lines 54-61).

Regarding claim 30, the information processing apparatus of claim 4, wherein said validity-condition is a deadline for accepting a response (Suzuki: col. 5, lines 21-33).

Regarding claim 31, the information processing apparatus of claim 4, wherein said validity condition is an age restriction (Suzuki: col. 3, lines 51-63).

Regarding claim 32, the information processing apparatus of claim 4, wherein said validity-condition is an adult category (Suzuki: col. 3, lines 51-63).

Regarding claim 33, the information processing apparatus of claim 4, wherein said validity-condition is a registered person (Suzuki: col. 3, lines 64- col. 4, line 6).

Regarding claim 34, the information processing apparatus of claim 4, wherein said validity-condition is an area restriction (Suzuki: col. 4, lines 15-31).

Applicant amended claims 1 and 4 to emphasize the radio broadcast information and audio quiz question.

Prior Art

U.S. Patent No. 6,628,928 by Crosby et al teaches an interactive radio broadcast system with radio stations for subscribers.

U.S. Patent No. 5,684,526 by Yoshinobu teaches a radio broadcast system for participating viewers in a two way broadcasting system.
